

François Ghost Philippe Starck

A series of wall mirrors in three sizes of square or rectangular shape, which brings to mind the ground crystal frames of the past. The frames are made of transparent or coloured polycarbonate with cross-section in the shape of a seagull's wing. It can be hung on its horizontal axis as well as on its vertical axis. Designed to be transparent or coloured transparent, they borrow from the colours of Venetian Murano glass to create a striking effect of depth and richness.
